

December 2017

Arthritis Awareness Month

Just like humans, pets can get arthritis in their joints. As your pet ages, it's good to see your veterinarian regularly to assess for arthritis. You can look for signs at home, such as decrease in activity, limping, difficulty moving, or pain.

Treatment options can include supplements, anti-inflammatories and pain management medications. Bring your pet in for an examination if you suspect he may have arthritis!

Aloha Animal Hospital Associates
4224 Waialae Ave
Honolulu, HI 96816
(808) 734-2242

